TALK OF THE TOWN.

About long, low, black wagon that you see about town with three men seated on the rear of it and another following on horseback is the vehicle provided for the transfer of the money from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to the Treasury.

Any one who could hold this wagon up, overcome the guard, and get away with the contents would get a rather good haul, for it carries many thousands of dollars' worth of the paper that is used for printing the money, as well as a large quantity of the greenbacks, which only need the seal of the Treasury to become legal tender.

Until six months ago the money was sent to the Treasury by means of an open wagon, but this method was deemed too dangerous.

Therefore, this heavy wagon was made to order, with steel-coated sides and padded doors, and guards were appointed to see to it that Uncle Sam does not lose any coin.

All of which reminds one of the story that Charles Case used to tell of the man who walked up to the ticket office of a large railroad and asked for a pasteboard for Chicago. The ticket agent handed it to him and the man tossed in $1.00.

A look of wonder came over the clerk's face and he told the man that he could not go to Chicago for $1.00, and that the fare was $17.50.

"Where can I go for $1.00?" was his agonized plaint.

And as Charles Case put it, "The whole line told him."

Why is it that women will always take a long, long time, and delay a whole line of people while purchasing their tickets at the box office of a theater or at the ticket window in a railroad station? It is a question which has never been answered in a satisfactory manner.

Yesterday there was a long line standing in front of the box office in a local theater. The person at the window was a large and healthy female.

"Are you sure that you have no other tickets for to-night?" was the first thing that she said to the treasurer as he passed her out two in the fourteenth row in the center.

On receiving an answer that he had two in the twelfth row on the left and two in the eleventh on the other side, a little farther away from the center of the stage, she immediately got an attack of that disease which afflicts persons that are mentally incapable of making up their mind.

A pretty military wedding took place yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Church, near Soldiers' Home, when Miss Harriet Louise O'Brien became the bride of Lieut. Edwin Deland Smith, Fourth Field Artillery, U. S. A. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock by the Rev. E. C. Buck, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends. The church was decorated with palms, ferns, and white lilies, and the organist rendered an appropriate musical programme, including "The Angels' Serenade," Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," Rubinstein's "Melody in F," the wedding march from "Lohengrin," for the entrance of the bride party, and the Mendelssohn March, which they were leaving. During the ceremony, "The Evening Star," from "Tannhauser," was played.

The bride is the granddaughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. H. M. Kendall, U. S. A., stationed at the United States Soldiers' Home. The bridegroom was of soft white chiffon cloth, effectively draped with white duchesse lace in princess effect. The skirt was of train, edged with heavy white silk cord, which was also festooned over the right shoulder. Her tulle veil was held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor, Miss Helen Wilson, wore white net over silk, with sleeves and yoke of baby Irish lace. She wore a large white chip hat with a crown of white lilies and a tulle bow at the side. She carried pink sweet peas and wore the bride's gift, a heart-shaped pearl brooch.

The Misses Lillie and Kathleen Anderson, cousins of the bride, and Miss Katherine Alvord and Miss Edith Baird were the bridesmaids. All wore white gowns of white point d'esprit, trimmed with baby Irish lace, two over pink and two over blue silk. They wore tulle hats to match and large white point d'esprit hats with fluffy crowns, trimmed with tulle bows to match their gowns. They all carried pink sweet peas, and wore the bride's gift to them—dainty enamel brooches.

Lieut. Smith's best man was Lieut. John G. Quekemyer, Fifth Cavalry, U. S. A., and the ushers were Lieut. Charles K. Rockwell, Engineer Corps, U. S. A.

Mrs. Kendall, who wore a gown of black lace and a mauve hat, and the bridegroom's mother, assisted the bride party in receiving the guests. Assisting in the dining-room were Mrs. Anderson, aunt of the bride, who wore white mouseline over lavender; Mrs. S. B. M. Young, wife of Lieut. Gen. Young; Mrs. Crosby P. Miller, wife of Brig. Gen. The couple will return to this city before going to their future home, Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., where Lieut. Smith's regiment is stationed.

A wedding of some local interest was that of Miss Mildred Dick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evans Dick, of New York, and Mr. Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., who took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the historic little church of St. Philip's, in the Hudson Highlands. The church decorations came from the hands of some conservatories at Glenolfe, the country home of the Dicks at Garrison-on-the-Hudson. A large party of relatives and friends attended the wedding.

STARVES IN PRISON

Nicaraguans Maltreat Pittman at Managua.

CONSUL PROTESTS TO MADRID

Captors Remove American Engineer from Bluefields to Capital, Where He Is Dependent on Charity—Hostility to United States Grows in Nicaragua—Appeals for Protection.

William P. Pittman, the American mining engineer who was captured by the Madriz forces while engaged in laying mines during the recent battle at Bluefields, was maltreated during the trip from his former place of confinement at the bluff near Bluefields to Managua, where he was placed in a filthy cell and deprived of food.

Jose de Olivares, American consul at Managua, who visited Mr. Pittman, has reported his condition to the State Department. Pittman told Mr. Olivares that he was removed from Bluefields on July 4. On the trip to Managua his captors failed to provide him with food, and he was dependent for subsistence upon charity.

Upon his arrival at Managua he was thrown in a cell five by six feet in size in an overcrowded prison. At the time Consul Olivares visited Pittman in the Managua jail the prisoner was not being furnished food by the prison authorities and was in a starving condition.

Protests to Madrid.

As soon as he learned of Pittman's condition Consul Olivares made vigorous representations to Senor Madriz, President of the de facto government in Western Nicaragua, protesting against the treatment accorded Pittman. Mr. Olivares reminded Senor Madriz that he had promised to treat Pittman with consideration.

Consul Olivares demanded that Pittman be removed to a larger and cleaner cell, and also that he be furnished with an adequate amount of food and a couch to sleep upon. This demand was granted by Senor Madriz, who also agreed to allow Consul Olivares to furnish Pittman food and a sleeping couch.

Senor Madriz informed Consul Olivares that no definite action regarding Pittman has been determined upon by the Madriz faction, but Mr. Olivares has been instructed by the department to keep in communication with Pittman and insist that he be treated properly by the Madriz faction.

It is understood that Secretary of State Knox is displeased with the surreptitious manner in which Pittman was secretly removed from the bluff at Bluefields, after the commanding officer of the Madriz forces had promised to notify Thomas P. Moffat, American consul at Bluefields, in case Pittman's transfer was ordered. The commanding officer of the Madriz forces transferred Pittman without fulfilling this promise.

Will Stop Harsh Treatment.

Mr. Knox has decided not to allow Senor Madriz an opportunity to harm Pittman, and it is probable that Consul Olivares will be instructed to visit him every few days to make certain that he is treated properly. The strong anti-American sentiment prevalent in Nicaragua, Secretary Knox believes, makes it necessary to maintain unusual vigilance to prevent the Madriz faction from ill-treating Pittman.

Several weeks ago the Madriz authorities declined to exchange him for a colonel in the Madriz army who was captured by the Estrada faction at the recent battle at Bluefields.

The anti-American sentiment in the western part of Nicaragua, which is under the control of the Madriz faction, is increasing, according to reports from Consul Olivares. Americans residing at Matagalpa have complained to the conthat their lives and property are in jeopardy.

Consul Olivares has made representations to Senor Madriz on the subject, and has reiterated to him the warning in Secretary Knox's note of December 1, 1909, that the United States will hold the Madriz faction strictly accountable for the security of the lives and property of Americans in that part of Nicaragua under his control.

The feeling against the United States at Matagalpa has become so intense that British and German citizens there have also appealed to their respective governments for protection. This, it is believed here, is the main reason for the sending of a German gunboat from Callao, Peru, to the west coast of Nicaragua.

Charles C. Eberhardt, American consul general at large, who is at present in Nicaragua on his regular tour of inspection of the consulates there, has also cabled information to the department regarding the political situation in Nicaragua.
